(San Francisco, CA) - EMMY® award winning production company, Frame Of Mind Films launches the US TV broadcast premiere of their award winning documentary The Great 14th: Tenzin Gyatso, The 14th Dalai Lama In His Own Words. Selected as the Valley of the Docs Audience Favorite at the 2019 Mill Valley Film Festival, and winner of the 2020 Best Humanitarian Doc Award at Sedona International Film Festival, The Great 14th is the first and only film to be made of the Dalai Lama in his own words.

“I promised His Holiness that I would make the most authentic film I could, that I would give him the most authentic voice I could. The film is his voice and his perspective. There was no other way to do it.” - Rosemary Rawcliffe, Producer / Director

This oral autobiography uses previously unreleased images and footage from his private collection and first hand conversations to paint a visceral, complex, humanized narrative of the vast experiences that the current Dalai Lama has encountered. The Great 14th explores an epic and heroic life of resilience, historical importance, and glorious humanity that has influenced Buddhists and citizens around the world for more than 50 years.

“Dalai Lama had participated with Rosemary in the making of two previous films, Emmy® nominated The Great Mother which was about the Dalai Lama’s mother, and the 2009 Emmy® winner A Quiet Revolution about the women’s uprising against the Chinese occupation of Tibet. The bond of trust they formed through these years is clearly evident in the comfort and ease with which the Dalai Lama fields questions” said John Schimmel, writer/producer/exec producer - Squadron 42, Foster Boy, Outlander.
